

UpWrite Words

Offering online and print writing services to the Personal Growth Community

Love Letter — “The Cold Hard Facts”

My Dear, I just wanted to say ~

You said to me, “Why bother? I’m just going to be disappointed like I always have been.”

I beg to differ. The cold hard facts of your failures in the past bear no guarantee of it happening this time.

Only that statement you made connects the past and the future.

More often than not, it was your fear that allowed failure. Not some inadequacy in you.

Please remember that.

*All My Lovin,
A.*

For more Love Letters visit www.UpWriteWords.com