

UpWrite Words

Offering online and print writing services to the Personal Growth Community

Love Letter — “Evidence You Can’t”

My Dear, I just wanted to say ~

You said, you can't. But do you have all the evidence?

You know no one who has done it that you could ask.

There is no information on how to do it, anywhere.

An insurmountable physical barrier is in your way.

*I urge you to follow this up further,
as there may be another route which could make the way clear.*

You have completely lost your passion to do it.

*Do not give up at the first sign of this.
Take another look and make sure there isn't some still hiding.*

When you have fully researched, answered all the questions, reviewed all materials, have all facts in hand, and you just can't generate any passion for it any more, anywhere.

Then, and only then, can you say you can't.

All My Lovin, A.

For more Love Letters visit www.UpWriteWords.com